

Mutiat Amao - Biography

Mutiat Amao is a Nigerian girl, born and bred in the country. She has lived and is still living in the country. She is the fourth child of her parents, a family of 7.

She is currently a 300 level Civil Engineering student in the University of Ilorin. She is a creative writer and also a content creator/writer.

She has written a number of pieces that still remain unpublished and she still hopes to keep writing.

Her hobbies are singing and watching movies.

Her first fictional story is published on a website Ankaracircle.com titled Ill-fated.

It talks of a young boy, coming of age that needs to save his village from the hands of a tyranny. After having a first hand experience about mental health issues and self harm, she believes she can use her words to enlighten the world more about self harm and harm reduction.

Her major aim is to reach the world with her writing and voice even though she's not much of a talker.

She's hoping to get into the filming industry through her writing skills. Her love for writing holds no bound as it seems to bring her the peace and solace that she wants.
